

Heelands School

History Progression Map

Intent

At Heelands School we plan our scheme of work to ensure that we progressively cover the skills and concepts required in the National Curriculum. Our teaching aims to develop historical skills and concepts which are transferable to whatever period of history is being studied and will equip children for future learning. The key historical skills and concepts, which are revisited throughout different concepts: Historical Interpretations; Historical Investigations; Chronological Understanding; Knowledge and Understanding of Events, People and Changes in the Past; Presenting, Organising and Communicating. The coverage of history topics in KS1 such as 'Toys' and 'Life in the 1960s' enables children to acquire an understanding of time, events and people in their memory and their parents' and grandparents' memories.

Implementation

In order for children to know more and remember more in each area of history studied, lessons are sequenced and structured whereby prior learning is always considered and opportunities for revision of facts and historical understanding are built into lessons. This allows for this revision to become part of good practice and ultimately help to build a depth to children's historical understanding. Through revisiting and consolidating skills, we aim to help children build on prior knowledge alongside introducing new skills and challenge. Revision and introduction of key vocabulary is built into each lesson. Vocabulary is included in display materials and additional resources to ensure that children are allowed opportunities to repeat and revise this knowledge. Through History lessons, we hope to inspire pupils to develop a love of history and see how it has shaped the world they live in.

Impact

The impact of using the full range of resources, including display materials, will be seen across the school with an increase in the profile of history. The learning environment across the school will be more consistent with historical technical vocabulary displayed, spoken and used by all learners. Whole-school and parental engagement will be improved through the use of history-specific home learning tasks and opportunities suggested in lessons and overviews for wider learning. We want to ensure that history is enjoyed by pupils across school, therefore encouraging them to want to continue building up a wealth of historical knowledge and understanding, now and in the future. Assessment in History is on-going, so Impact is measured through a combination of observation, through discussions and questioning, or through the written outcomes produced within lessons. It is these ongoing assessments that will inform differentiation.

Curriculum Expectations

Foundation Stage

Understanding the World Past and Present ELG

Children at the expected level of development will:

- Talk about the lives of the people around them and their roles in society.
- Know some similarities and differences between things in the past and now, drawing on their experiences and what has been read in class.
- Understand the past through settings, characters and events encountered in books read in class and storytelling;

Speaking ELG

Children at the expected level of development will:

- Participate in small group, class and one-to-one discussions, offering their own ideas, using recently introduced vocabulary
- Offer explanations for why things might happen, making use of recently introduced vocabulary from stories, non-fiction, rhymes and poems when appropriate

Key Stage 1 National Curriculum Expectations

Pupils should develop an awareness of the past, using common words and phrases relating to the passing of time.

They should know where the people and events they study fit within a chronological framework and identify similarities and differences between ways of life in different periods. They should use a wide vocabulary of everyday historical terms.

They should ask and answer questions, choosing and using parts of stories and other sources to show that they know and understand key features of events.

They should understand some of the ways in which we find out about the past and identify different ways in which it is represented.

Pupils should be taught about:

- changes within living memory. Where appropriate, these should be used to reveal aspects of change in national life.
- events beyond living memory that are significant nationally or globally [for example, the Great Fire of London, the first aeroplane flight or events commemorated through festivals or anniversaries].
- the lives of significant individuals in the past who have contributed to national and international achievements. Some should be used to compare aspects of life in different periods [for example, Elizabeth I and Queen Victoria, Christopher Columbus and Neil Armstrong, William Caxton and Tim Berners-Lee, Pieter Bruegel the Elder and LS Lowry, Rosa Parks and Emily Davison, Mary Seacole and/or Florence Nightingale and Edith Cavell].
- significant historical events, people and places in their own locality.
